His background as a trial lawyer, paired with his estate and business planning practice, have uniquely positioned him to know the technical side of planning, as well as which areas end up being litigated.

Prior to law school, he worked in the insurance industry, and spent several years in the United States Coast Guard. After law school he worked in large law firms, in-house at the general counsel's office of an international Fortune 500 business, and has operated his own law firm.

He is rated Superb, by AVVO, an independent lawyer rating service, and was selected as a 2011, 2012 & 2013 Northern California Super Lawyers Rising Star, an honor given annually to less than 2.5% of all lawyers in California.
